

GIFTED HANDS

The gifted hand is a movie based on the life of neurosurgeon ben Carson from 1961-1987. Thomas carter directed and coproduced the film and he was nominated for the director's guide of America award for outstanding directing television film. The movie recited mostly positive reviews from critics also.

Little ben Carson when he was 11 years old, he was not a bright student in the school. He was always given by lowest marks in the class. His single mother Sonya who had only 3rd grade education even doesn't know how to read. But she always distressed about her son's academic failures and tries to encourage them. She was always believed in them. She used to say "you can do anything anyone else can do. But only you can do it better."

As a good decision she made is to restrict ben and his brother watching TV and suggest them to use that time to reading books at library. Two boys soon began to love reading and learn many things from world books and within one year he goes to bottom of his class. His family didn't have much money. Once his teacher insult him and his mother at the parents meeting. But he was not the person who get discourage with these stuff.in the high school he had got an experience that change his life. Because of his uncontrollable temper, he nearly killed a friend over changing radio staions.shocked boy runs home and cries to god to take away his temper.

But after hard work and strong determination he receives a scholarship to Yale University. After studying neurosurgery he is accepted as a resident at Johns Hopkins hospital where he faced with an incident that could end his career operate on a dying man without permission or supervision or let him die. He takes the risk and saves the man's life.

In 1985 his wife is rushed to hospital where she miscarries their twins. He stays with her all night until the next morning when he does a rare procedure a hemispherectomy which he removes half the brain of 4 year old girl who had been convulsing 100 times each day. He didn't had time to even cry for his lost babies .His life was built on hard work and dedication.so that he has carried out much bearing capacity.

In 1987 dr Carson and his team of doctors manage to separate the twins conjoined at the head .after about 22 hours procedure they successfully separate the babies both alive which never done before.

The movie ends with this incident.ben took on challenges, devoting him to a life of learning and achievement, overcoming adversity on his path to become world renowned person. The doctor believes that encouraging people to succeed in life is as important as the work he does in the operating room. He says "if I didn't do all that I do as a doctor then nobody would want to hear what I have to say."

Nowadays he continues as the head of pediatric neurosurgery department at Johns Hopkins. He has got the presidential Medal of Freedom in 2008.
